Q | who is God?

God is personal, eternal Spirit, Creator of the universe, Father of our Lord Jesus Christ and our Father:

“Lord, through all the generations you have been our home! Before the mountains were born, before you gave birth to the earth and the world, from beginning to end, you are God.”—Psalm 90:1-2 (NLT)

- God Is Spirit...“God is spirit” means God is unseen by the natural eye. In a sense God is like the wind. You cannot see the wind. You can see what the wind does—how it tosses the branches of the trees, makes your kite soar in the sky, or bends the grass as it moves across the field. You know the wind is there because of what it does. In a similar way you can know that God is near by the things he does—for God is always acting on our behalf.
- God Is Everywhere...The Church uses the word omnipresent to refer to the fact that God, while unseen, is present everywhere. By this word the Church simply means that God is always near us and that there is no place we can be where God is not.

- God Is Almighty...Omnipotent is the word the Church sometimes uses to express that God is all-powerful. By all-powerful we mean that God can do anything God wants to do. And since God is good and loving as well as almighty, we can be assured that God controls the world so that his purpose will be achieved in the end. Whenever Christians become disturbed about the power of evil in the world, they ought to look to God and shout, "Alleluia: for the Lord God omnipotent reigns."
- God Is All-Knowing...Omniscient is a big word with a simple meaning. God is all-knowing. God knows everything about us, everything good, everything bad and everything in between. And the wonderful thing about it is that God still cares for us and wants to help us.
- God Is Holy...There are two things the word holy means when we use it related to God. It reminds us first of God's unspeakable greatness, majesty, and elevation above all created beings. Have you ever been in church and felt yourself very small and humble in God's presence? Isaiah had such an experience when he came into the Temple and saw a vision of the Lord (Isaiah 6:1-8). It is God's holiness which awakens this feeling of awe and reverence.

The word holiness also leads us to think of the righteousness of God—of his opposition to all evil, hatred of all sin and love for his creation. Have you noticed how closely this is related to the first meaning of holiness? It was when Isaiah felt himself in the presence of the high and majestic Lord that he knew how sinful he was and how great, powerful and all-loving God was.
- God Is Love...Christians have no doubt that God loves them (John 3:16). Why does God love you? It is not because you are attractive or because you are good, although God rejoices in your goodness. God's love toward you doesn't depend on any of these things, but only on the fact that God can't help loving because that's who God is. "But God shows his love for us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8).

SESSION TWO The Bible

Q | what do we believe about the Bible?

We believe that the Holy Scriptures, Old and New Testaments, are the word of God and the only perfect rule for faith, doctrine, and conduct.

“All Scripture is inspired by God and is useful to teach us what is true and to make us realize what is wrong in our lives. It corrects us when we are wrong and teaches us to do what is right. God uses it to prepare and equip his people to do every good work.”—2 Timothy 3:16-17, NLT

climbing higher

The Bible is the account of God’s making himself known to human beings and their response to God. It can be called “the book of the acts of God.” The Bible tells the story of an ancient people—the Hebrews—who were called by God to signal God’s saving mission to all people. It also tells the story of a new people of God—the Christians—who have heard God’s call to decision through Jesus Christ, and have been set apart to demonstrate God’s redemption to the whole human race. Through the Bible the Holy Spirit draws us to God, helps us come to faith and guides our actions.

Let's look at this in more depth.

The Old Testament tells a story—a story of God's covenant or agreement with a particular people named the Hebrews. Through historic events God acted.

- God acted by entering into a covenant with Abraham.
- God acted through Moses by leading the Hebrews out of Egypt, the land of oppression.
- God acted in the conquest of the Promised Land, Canaan.
- God acted through judges and kings, prophets and leaders to help the Hebrews understand their mission in the world.
- God acted in judgment on the Hebrews, allowing them to be exiled in Babylon.
- God acted in allowing the people to return to their home country again.

This means that God is not just an idea; nor is God some being just sitting in the heavens. God has acted in history. How else would we know him?

The New Testament tells a story, too—the story of God's new covenant or agreement with a particular people named Christians, those who had heard his call in the person of his own son, Jesus Christ. Through historic events God acted again.

- God acted in the birth, life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ.
- God acted in the gift of the Holy Spirit.
- God acted in creating a new people of God, the Church.
- In each of these acts we see God calling his people into being, shaping their lives in keeping with his will.
- God and a called-out people: this is the theme of the Old Testament.
- God-in-Christ and a called-out people: this is the theme of the New Testament.

If we can keep our eye on this central message of the Bible, we will not lose our way in a great forest of details—names, places, far-away events, and words. This is sometimes called “salvation history.” It is the story of God at work in the world of human beings.

SESSION THREE

God and the World

foothold

Q | what is God's relationship to the world?

God created the world by his Word, sustains it by his power, and entrusts it to the care of human beings.

"You are worthy, O Lord our God, to receive glory and honor and power. For you created everything and it is for your pleasure that they exist and were created." – Revelation 4:11, NLT

climbing higher

Let us look at the account of creation in Genesis. What are the important things it says about God and the world?

It teaches that God is the maker of all things. This is to deny that the world came by chance or by accident. Creation is not the result of blind forces working within nature itself. It is the handiwork of God.

Creation is the free act of God. God's act would not be free if there were someone or something which forced Him to create a world. The truth is that God made the world because it pleased Him to do so. God wanted the world.

God's reason for making the world is love. We could say, of course, that there are several reasons for the creation of the world. For one thing, the creation shows God's power. It also speaks of His glory. The deepest reason, however, is the fact that He is love. He created the world that there might be living beings with whom He could share His love.

Everything God created was good. It is true that later on people chose to do evil rather than good and sin entered the world. In the beginning, however, "God saw all that he had made, and it was very good" (Genesis 1:31 TNIV).

Some religions teach that the creation itself is evil. Christianity says this is God's world and we are not to flee from it but work in it to correct the evils which our sins have brought to it. The Bible says in one place that "the whole world is under control of the evil one" (1 John 5:19 TNIV). Notice it does not say the world is evil but that it is under control of the evil one. Actually it is God's world, and Christians must try to rescue it from the attempt of the evil one to gain control. We may be sure that in the end God will be Lord of all.

Humans are the crown of creation. You notice in reading the first chapter of Genesis that God's work of creation was in stages. First God made the simpler things and then the more complex. There is an order among created things. Humans are to "rule over the fish in the sea and over the birds in the sky and over every living creature that moves on the ground" (Genesis 1:28 TNIV). People are made to steward the creation and use it according to the wisdom given them. We must remember that people are also under God and are to be obedient to God's will at all times.

What about Science?

Is there a conflict between what the Bible says, as in the creation accounts, and science? Certainly the Bible conflicts with any scientific explanation which says there is no God.

It is important to remember that it is not the purpose of Genesis to speak in scientific language. After all, science is continually changing. Science at the time Galileo (1642) was very different from the science of Thomas Edison's day (1931). It is certain that the science of today will seem old-fashioned in just a few years. Very wisely the Bible doesn't try to give a scientific picture of creation but presents a simple account, the meaning of which can be grasped by all people, whether they lived one thousand years ago or live today or will live a thousand years from now. In Genesis we see that the world is created by God and is dependent upon God. This is the most important teaching of the first two chapters in Genesis.

It is the conviction of a great many Christians that there can be no real conflict between science and the Scriptures if each is rightly understood.
