God's Word
Cognitive Development	Nurturing Implications		Additional Tips for Home
Attention span - from 5-20 minutes Development of reading skills begins Enjoy repetition and imitation Can learn through humor Ask questions about the origin of things, such as babies Try to cope with the concept of death Think intuitively rather than logically - can make connections with their experiences Think from particular to particular, unable to generalize Still assume everyone thinks just as they do	Provide activities including all five senses. Begin to give children opportunities to read. Repeat Bible stories and songs. Stories about God's creation and creatures are fascinating to this age. They can begin to grasp the concepts of life and death. They can begin to relate experiences to stories.	Ask "wondering" ("I wonder") questions and begin to ask about story details. Use concrete language - words that mean what they say. Make applications for the present. Do not ask children to make generalizations or draw conclusions from Bible stories.	This is a critical time to read with your children and to begin to have them read to you or to tell stories back to you. Begin to relate Bible stories and truths to life events.

Relationships
Social/Emotional	Nurturing Implications		Additional Tips For
		T	Home
Initiate actions and ideas	Offer group activities.	Children who do not experience the	Find children doing positive things and Begin to play in groups	Include boys and girls	assurance of	praise them for it.
with others	in same groups.	forgiveness during this stage may later	Just as children this age
Test limits	Even though a child may not understand the	experience inner guilt over goals and actions:	begin to relate to others, so too can they Understand right and wrong actions	psychological pain they cause one another, we can still teach a child to	Self-doubt, fear of losing self-control, inability to forgive self, brooding over	begin to think about their relationship with God. Encourage this Act according to their	be thoughtful and	past mistakes.	relationship.
interpretation of the rules laid down by parents or	considerate of others and point out behavior		Plan times to give teachers to avoid punishment	that hurts others.		children your full and undivided attention.
Moral understanding	This is a key time to teach about related to quantity rather than intention.	consequences of actions as well as than intention.	forgiveness and grace.
Can understand physical pain they cause another but not psychological pain Need to know that if they are guilty of wrong action, they will be forgiven

Outward Action: Missions and Service
Physical	Nurturing Implications		Additional Tips for Home
Control Greater variation of growth rate Little endurance Very active Eyes and ears are easily strained	Art and craft projects should still be kept simple with little detail. Remember that if projects are for others, it models Outward Action. It is still easier for children this age to manipulate larger drawing instruments. Alternate periods of activity and quiet. Do not let music levels get too high. Children this age still need opportunities for exercising larger motor skills. (Group games, climbing equipment, outdoor activities)	Remember that a source of conflict at this age still arises because these children still cannot grasp the concept that other children could think differently from them. Set clear expectations and be consistent in following through on expectations. Service ministries: * Nursing home visits * Pictures to missionaries * Buying food for food shelf * Planting * Collecting toys, mittens, etc. for needy. * Send pictures to children who are absent * Baking cookies for others * Singing in a choir	Children may be too large to pick up but they still need lots of hugs and touch. Children this age can also begin to take on small chores. (i.e. teaching them to pick up after themselves) Consider doing a joint service project from the list provided on page 9 – Outward Action. Speak and act kindly toward others. Talk to children about how they like to be treated.

Worship
Spiritual	Nurturing Implications		Additional Tips for Home
Able to sense the presence of God Understand obedience Have a simple trust in God Accept what they are told about God Capable of worship	Use "Wondering" ("I wonder") Questions. Have children tell and read the Bible stories as they are able. Answer questions simply and clearly. Do not use abstract language (ideas which cannot be experienced through the senses). Provide opportunities for worship and be alert for spontaneous times for worshipping God. Constantly remind children of God's love for them.	Can understand: * God takes care of me * God forgives me * God is always with me * I love God * I belong to God's family * Jesus is God's Son, died on the cross, rose from the dead and lives in heaven	Devotion time can include more than reading the Bible and praying. It can also include games. A child's spiritual nurturing happens throughout the day not just during a designated time.			